Abstract

A method for computer-supported speech analysis, in which a syntactic structure is assigned to an utterance. In this process, assignments are made with probabilities which depend on an expanded context.

5